“We’re Hungry!” they shouted, stomping their feet. “But, where can we find a great place to eat!” Over the rivers rising, through green southern pines, they meandered along, speaking only in rhymes.

The sun winked at them slyly, as clouds danced about. “Do you fancy some shrimp and crisp, golden trout?” They nodded their heads in an affirmative “Yes!” But to find such a place was anyone’s guess.

Then all of a sudden, a seagull flew by. He circled and dipped, squawking seagull type cries. “If it’s seafood you want, there’s no need to pursue it. Just follow me, Mates, and I’ll lead you right to it!”

Lo and behold! The sailboat was sighted. “BAY BREEZE!” They shouted, clearly excited. “Pirates and lighthouses! Fishes galore! This is just like the seashore, only indoors!”

And now that you’ve found us, this ditty must finish. “Thank Goodness” we cheer, “Otherwise you’d be famished!”

From the moment we open, till the hour we close. We’re really delighted it’s “BAY BREEZE” you chose!
